

CTE – Early Childhood Education Classes

These are concurrent college classes and are easily adapted to online learning. Students will continue to complete the course requirements using Google Classroom and Zoom. A new component of the online learning process is the “Discussion” section. A discussion question is posted in Google Classroom and students make an initial post and respond to other students’ posts. I also add information to the discussion and extend the critical thinking process by asking students to expand on their thoughts and ideas. A rubric was created and sent to each student for clarification of the grading process for this new element in the class. The rest of the course requirements remain the same as the face-to-face requirements. Students can email me with questions for clarification of the assignments. I respond within a few hours during the school week and within twelve hours on the weekend. All assignments, discussions, objectives, DFAs, etc. are posted in Google Classroom by 8:00 am Monday morning. All assignments are due by 5:00 pm on Friday unless a different date and time is specifically noted in the instructions for the specific assignment.
